one big GAME

Has it ever occurred to you that life is just one big game? High school is where you learn the rules and TRHS is where you start to put it all together.

Freshmen. You start off trying to find your way through the halls of Roosevelt's labyrinth. From then on, your job is to carefully piece together the puzzle. The easiest way to complete your puzzle is by following the rules of the upperclassmen and administration.

Sophomores. At the beginning of your year you are stuck on Uno, but you will gradually move to Go Fish and by the end you will have mastered Poker. Remember if you are going to try to bluff, keep a straight face and don't get caught. By the end of your year, you will know how to play your cards right.

Juniors. The advancement beyond cards has brought you to board games. Starting simple with a game of checkers, you are trying to work your way to Life. During Scrabble, do not forget that the more creative the word, the more points you get. The easiest way to maintain your goal is to stick to the instructions . . . but be willing to take some chances.

Seniors. By this time you're ready to do your own thing. You know what decisions to make and which words to choose; that is why we are throwing you a Mad Lib. In your years at TRHS, you have learned your nouns, verbs and adjectives, so use them wisely. And if you ever get stuck, just grab a word and fill in the blank.

Now it is time to sit back and enjoy the year, so take a look and do not get too puzzled!

HOMECOMING week 1998

The 1998 homecoming week was filled with many traditions. Activities included window painting, sidewalk painting, a mixer and a car rally.

Each day students strutted their stuff down the halls, dressed to fit that day's theme. Senior Bob Hughes said, "I spent months planning my outfits for the different days." The different themes of each day were: Hawaiian day, hat day, class day, "flash from the past" day and blue and white day.

One tradition missing, however, was tee-peeing. Over the past few years the tee-peeing issue has been debated again and again. Principal Larry Martindale said, " I was disappointed that student council didn't choose an after-school tee-peeing activity. Next year maybe we'll try an evening one."

Homecoming week this year had a special bonus for the entire student body. As time-off for good behavior, students were let out of school an hour early the following Friday. Martindale said, " In the five years I've been here, it's the best homecoming week I've seen. There were no problems and the kids were mature and responsible!"

GET down TONIGHT

Who would have thought that this would be the year that the homecoming dance sold a record number of tickets? The theme, "Welcome to the Jungle," brought out the animal in everyone. The ticket sales hit a record high of about 1,100 tickets instead of about 900 that were sold the previous year. "It appears that there is a large number of kids who have come together and want to have fun in a nice way," said Larry Martindale, principal. Martindale also said, "This year there was a resurgence of spirit at the actual dances."

Not only did the record books show the number of ticket sales, but the heat in the gym also explained the high number. The heat seemed to be unbearable, but students ignored it and danced the night away. Sophomore Nikki Reed said, "It was ridiculously hot, but I had a lot of fun anyway." This seemed to be the reaction of many TRHS students. To solve this problem there has been discussion of holding the homecoming dance at the Val Air Ballroom, instead of the Roosevelt gym. This is a convenient idea because the Val Air is set up for a dance, it has food and drinks, and has real bathrooms. Another idea would be to buy extra-large fans to place in the gym. This idea is not the best, because all the fans would do is circulate the hot air that is already in the gym.

Another reason the dance went so smoothly was because of the organization put into it. "The whole week and dance was planned very well by Walt Kennedy (sponsor) and student council. Everyone was so pro-positive about homecoming. The sidewalk painting was the best I had ever seen," said Martindale.

Over all there were awesome reactions to the dance this year. The Jungle was a fresh success.

This school year seems to have had an unusual abundance of senior-freshman siblings. Approximately 50 pairs were spotted.

You could have walked through the halls of TRHS and seen Natalie Bookey, Peter Adelman, or Megan Scieszinski. These three freshmen may have seemed like duplicates of their senior siblings, Blaine Bookey, David Adelman and Nicole Scieszinski.

But looks can be deceiving. Tiffany Heilman commented about her freshman brother Jacob: "We are 100% different."

Many of the siblings were involved in sports or school activities together. Brooke and Kate Peterson both played on the varsity girls soccer team. "This is the first year I have played soccer with my sister, and we have had lots of fun on the field," Brooke said.

After all of these activities are finished, these freshmen were the few that weren't walking home. Blaine Bookey said, "I like having Natalie at school because when I give her and her friends rides, I get free entertainment."

Some of the entertainment the Bookey sisters shared was publicly displayed on the Friday before Homecoming when the senior Lady Tankers picked up the freshmen for a little initiation. Marya Swenson, who was supposed to be out kidnapping her little fish (freshman swimmer Haley Kerman), was rudely awakened by the words of "Laura, get up!" at 5 a.m. when other swimmer kidnappers had arrived to capture her little sister, Laura.

Lauren Adams thought it was fun to have her freshman brother Ethan in the same school, but she also said, "I get to help him find his way around, and harrass him daily."

Sometimes the harrassment is reversed. Freshman Ryan Kennedy says "Kelly is a good source of letting out my frustrations, I get to do a little butt whooping."

So you should have probably gone by your initial instinct that those cute little freshmen roaming the halls did resemble a good share of the 1999 graduating class.

FUN with SNOW

Although there were not many huge snowfalls this winter, students took advantage of every minute they could get when it did snow. Favorite activities included sledding, snowboarding, playing frisbee, jumping on trampolines, and getting a quick bite to eat (let's hope the snow was clean).

The cold weather made everyone a little crazy, and getting outside to burn off energy was always the thing to do in the winter. Although most of the students thought that the regular cross-country season was in the fall, the team knew it took training year round. Whether rain or shine, dry or wet, cement or snow, they ran.

Other students just sat inside and waited patiently for winter to end. Snow just didn't seem to be their thing. "The only good thing about winter, is when it ends," said senior Scott Lerner.

Sophomore Joe Hand was known for jumping out when least expected and chucking snowballs at innocent little girls. "It gives me great pleasure to see the looks on the little girl's faces, especially the little Catholic ones by St. Augustine's." Not only did he target girls, but he was also spotted targeting cars.

Whatever it was, the majority of students found something useful about the snow. However the real mystery of snow had yet to be uncovered...where did it go when it melted?

"'Have a pig!' The saying was heard throughout the theater instead of the traditional 'break a leg'. In hearing this, Rachel Smith thought of bringing little plastic pigs for a joke on the final night of the play. Jacob Ayers put his little piggy under his hat on the final night to get a rise out of the rest of the cast. The whole play he had the plastic pig under his cap. Yet Ayers forgot that he had to switch hats with Jess White toward the end of the musical, and when White took off his hat during the performance, there was a little pig standing on his head."

DOES anything GO?

One of the greatest movies ever made was the epic story of true love on a huge ocean-going vessel. Of course the name of this motion picture was the unforgettable tale of "Titanic." "Anything Goes" was a very similiar story. Instead of Kate Winslet, we had junior Callie Foshe. Since Leo was booked for the weekend of the musical, we sighed at the other heartthrob, junior Jess White.

It all started off when Billy, played by White, met his destiny. One day he ran into a beautiful lady named Hope, played by Foshe. Billy fell in love after already knowing Hope, but just realizing her true beauty. Hope, on the other hand, paid little attention to Billy's affection since she was already engaged to Sir Evelyn, played by junior Dan Aukes. Billy saw his second chance at winning his true love when he heard about a boat traveling to the states from England. Billy knew that Hope was going to be aboard, so he caught a ride to catch his destiny. Nothing stood in Billy's way except one huge obstacle, Sir Evelyn. Billy knew that the only way to Hope's heart was to get rid of her fiance, so he called upon a few of his friends, Moon Face, Reno, and Bonnie to do the dirty work. In the end it turned out that Sir Evelyn got the hots for Reno and that left the door wide open for Billy. During all this time, Hope was falling in love with Billy more and more each minute, but she felt obligated to her previous arrangement, her soon-to-be husband. Yet, now that Billy had taken the liberty to get him out of the picture, Hope and Billy could live the life together that they both wanted so much.

The whole cast and crew had to be dedicated for a performance like this. "Everyone had a lot to do," said junior Kristi Rickerd. "With practices after school and during conferences we all had to work harder to make the musical as good as it was." The cast even had a practice on Halloween, but they all said that it was definitely worth it. Without all the dedication and hard work, the play would not have been the unsinkable success it was.

ROCKIN' the BOAT

The "Love Boat" sailed as one of the more popular winter formals we have had at TRHS. An outrageous number of tickets were sold, which made for a hot and sweaty dance floor.

The dance fell on Saturday, February 13, the night before Valentine's Day. Therefore, the holiday influenced the title... "Love Boat."

"It was fun to tie the title in with the holiday. This made the dance so much more fun to plan and go to," said senior Mary Tiffany, head of the winter dance committee.

The committee was made up of about 15 senior girls who picked out the theme, music, decorations, and sold the tickets. The group met about once a week to make further progress each meeting. "The most hectic part was selling tickets. I think the key is a lot of patience," said senior Sarah Seff.

There were very positive reactions of the simple, yet elegant decorations that made the Marriot sparkle. "The Marriot looked great. The girls did a great job," said vice principal Gail Soesbe.

Time was tight for senior winter dance committee member Kit Schwartz. "Getting the decorations up and running home to primp myself for the dance took smart planning," she said.

The one complaint was the limited dance space. Even though the dance floor was small, students still crowded together and made space to bust a move.

"I had a great time at the dance, but was a little disappointed that my date wouldn't come join me on the floor," said sophomore Kaori Atkins.

Even principal Larry Martindale made his way out to the floor with his wife to show off their fancy swing moves. The students at TRHS rocked this Love Boat.

LADIES and GENTLEMEN

From academics to athletics to extracurricular activities, spree week was an overall success. The Friday morning assembly covered all areas of TRHS including Man and Woman of the Year, The Daryl Cook Award, and an acceptance into the Air Force.

Eight senior candidates were selected from the student body to represent TRHS. Heather Asman, Topher Dawe, Egan Hill, Kelly Kennedy, Cyrus Nichols, Kit Schwartz, Mary Tiffany, and John Walker strutted their stuff. Each was recognized for excellency in school involvement. A film strip and story told of each senior's life and achievements. They were recognized for leadership around the school including participating in student council, clubs, sports, and volunteer service.

The ambassadors club presented junior Whitney Austin with the Daryl Cook Award for volunteering her time. "I never expected to receive the award, but I am gratified and honored to be recognized," said Austin. One hundred dollars was donated to Austin's choice of charity, Trinity United Methodist Church.

Senior Justin Sime was presented with acceptance into the Colorado Springs Air Force Academy during the assembly. He will attend the Academy in the fall for his education and pilot training and then go into the service.

SATURDAY night FEVER

Some of the best dance moves were witnessed at the spree dance. With the theme being "Saturday Night Fever," the students were taking full advantage of the dance floor to show off their disco moves.

The interesting part of the dance was that the attendance was quite low. The ticket sales were normal, however the gym seemed sparse. Some paid no attention and danced the night away while others decided to chase the camera man around the entire night. Whatever students chose to do, one thing was for sure... the music was a big hit.

"We decided to put all the extra money towards the deejay. We decided to spend less on decorations so we would have more for the deejay, and it sure paid off," said senior Sarah Tallman, secretary of R-Club. Sandy Cloe, sponsor of R-Club, said, "We spent about four times the amount that we usually do on the deejay, thinking that students better love it, and they did. The reactions from the students were nothing but good."

The members of R-Club are the people who organize the spree dance every year, and this year seemed to be a very creative dance which showed excellent coordination. "I think it was one of the best spree dances we have had. Everyone was having a good time dancing, and the costumes were some of the best that we've had," said senior Kelly Kennedy, president of R-Club.

Not only were students there dancing the night away, but some were there anxiously awaiting the announcement for man and woman of the year, which was announced around 10 p.m. And the winners were... Egan Hill and Mary Tiffany.

However, no matter what reason students were at the spree dance, this dance goes to prove how imaginative the students were. Not only were the costumes imaginative, but the students were all showing the bad "Saturday Night Fever" that they had.

TWO for ONE

The drama department pulled off a new challenge: two plays in the same amount of time it takes for one. After stress and panic, they finally pulled the feat off beautifully.

The drama department put on a play called "The Odd Couple," by Neil Simon, on April 9th and 10th. The opening scene started with an attention-getter as a suicidal Florence (junior Lynn Behling), learns that her husband wants a divorce. Florence meets her friends (juniors Callie Foshe, Jennifer Stimple, sophomores Kathryn Ellerhoff and Shiloh Ballantyne) at Olive's apartment, causing them to panic. After all suicide attempts were curbed, Olive (junior Molly Munns) invites Florence to stay with her. Florence and Olive annoy each other with their different lifestyles. Olive is happily unorganized while Florence lives for a clean house.

Two Spanish brothers Manolo (sophomore John Hudson) and Jesus (sophomore Shea Parsons) go on a double date with Olive and Florence. There are a lot of problems, but all seemed to work itself out in the end, though possibly not how one may have imagined.

"Broadway Bound," performed March 12 and 13 was also written by Neil Simon. It was about two brothers who wrote comedy skits in the 1930's or 1940's to sell to NBC. NBC wanted to start producing them on the air, but there were a lot of problems at home.

Juniors Whitney Smith and and Jess White played the brothers, while senior Kenneth Naanep was their father, who was cheating on their mother, played by junior Stephanie Viars. Also featured were their aunt, played by senior Caitlin Powell, who tried to convince their grandfather (junior Drew Fay) to move away from their home in Brighton Beach to Florida with their grandmother, who is never shown.

When their show is finally produced, the radio personalities were played by senior Adam Jacob, juniors Ben Jacobi and Lucy Nelson. The wonderful sound effects were provided by junior Eryn Davison.

ROUGHRIDERS have RYTHYM

TRHS choirs members have been graced with good luck at competitions and the ability to sing and dance their best.

At the Johnston competition early in January, the varsity show choir members blew their fellow competitors away. They placed fourth out of 11 schools from around the state, making it the first time that the varsity had made night finals. Their show "Our System of Survival" proved to be a crowd pleaser when they performed at "Fire in the Sky" last December. The citywide celebration, estimated at 15,000 people, was the largest crowd they had ever performed for.

The choirs have come a long way with the help of MaryAnne Sims, who began teaching at TRHS two years ago. And of course the varsity could not have done it without the help of Mike Walag, who has been directing TRHS choirs for 14 years. Many of the varsity members have been working together for four years. "We're really unified," said senior Anita VanLo. "The varsity show choir is the new Iowa powerhouse."

They left the fate of the varsity show choir in good hands. The incoming juniors and sophomores have had a great year themselves. JV placed first at Johnston, very good considering that it was their first competition of the year. And let's not exclude the freshmen who placed fourth at the Urbandale competition last February. They actually outplaced the JV choir, proving that they could do just as well as upperclassmen.

TRHS has several other choirs besides show. There's also concert choir, mixed chorus, and chamber chorale, which is made up of the most talented voices at TRHS.

Members of all the fine choirs worked all year to perform and compete. It wasn't easy to sing in front of large groups of people, but somehow they all managed to do it with style.

What a harmonious year at Roosevelt for the band and orchestra groups.

The orchestra had 32 members in it compared to previous year's 29. Nine of the orchestra tried out for All-State and 5 were selected. The five who achieved the honor were sophomore Ben Frambach on violin, sophomore Koari Atkins on violin, sophomore Marty Lucas on viola, junior Audrey Grask on cello and second year All-Stater sophomore Laura Spitler on bass. Spitler also got chosen for the first chair bass which means she was rated top bass player in the state.

"This year is a building season and next year we will look into contests and other things to build up the orchestra," explained director Sandy Tatge, who was a new director.

The concert band had two people go to All-State. Senior Sarah Hagman on the flute who was a second year All-Stater, and freshman Carin Powell also on flute. Hagman was selected as the first chair for the flute section as well. Senior Sarah Frambach was chosen as a second alternate for the flutes.

The jazz band received a Division 1 rating at the State Jazz Band Festival. The jazz band was the only band at the festival to get a Division I.

The marching band endured a rainy season. "Even though the two competitions were canceled due to the rain, they still did a great job during football games and all the other activities they were involved in," said senior Heather Asman, a drum major along with senior Erin Will.

The dance squad had a bigger and more diverse team than ever before. Out of the 33 members that participated, 28 of them were new.

Co-captain senior Kate Glasnapp said, "everyone who tried out made the squad because the captains wanted to give everyone a chance."

The captains of this year's dance team were senior Derrick Wilson, junior Larissa Linley, sophomore Adrienne Curry, senior Chantel Davis and Glasnapp.

For three years the dance squad has performed at Roosevelt.

"Dance squad is kids who come together to perform and have fun. Its just dancing, mostly to R&B music," said co-coordinator and sponsor Bernessa Bradford. Talmadge Tanks and Renee Burkett also assisted the team. A new addition to the team this year was disc jockey, junior Morris Brannon.

The squad performed during pep assemblies and at basketball games. Members of the dance squad chose the music and choreographed their own dances, which they practiced twice a week. The spirit of the squad was shown in their unique dancing and smiling faces. "I'm very proud of my squad," said Bradford.

This was the first year that the dance squad had a full team of talented dancers. It was an advantage to have a bigger team this year because everyone worked together. Teamwork was a definite plus.

With the help of the school, Bradford believed the dance squad could move on to do more things. "The staff has supported us 100 percent," she said.

HIT the BOOKS

"Most students know what to study, that's usually made clear in each class. But knowing how to study makes the difference between successful and struggling students. One trick is figuring out memory techniques that work for you and studying with others to help students learn more efficiently," said Jane Cook, an algebra and geometry teacher. This held true for most students who had good study habits.

Different atmospheres were beneficial for different people. Some people needed complete silence to study whereas others prefered it noisy.

Sophomore Tia Pena says she liked to "make something to eat, turn off the TV, unplug the phone, sit at my desk and study for a good half an hour."

Others like sophomore R.J. Rademacher preferred to have some background noise. "I like to listen to Backstreet Boys while I am preparing for a big test, just to set the mood."

For some students it helped to study in groups of two or three. In advanced classes such as advanced chemistry, advanced biology, or pre calculus and calculus, many students found this study method to help immensely.

"When I have studied in groups before, it has really helped me because we were learning from each other instead of hearing a teacher lecturing you," said junior Chris Brown.

Where did students find the time to study? What about sports? What about work? What about a social life? Junior Cailin Flattery found time right after school and before work.

"This doesn't happen everyday though. Schedules change and things come up. When this happens, I can count on a late night of studying, which is, of course, a basic Friday night for me," said Flattery.

Some people might have thought studying was no fun and sometimes a hassle, but it was important to make it a priority so they could achieve your goals as a student here at TRHS.

Doing book work was not all that went on in school, with teachers trying to get student's minds to travel above and beyond.

One major school project this year was the eighteenth century project conducted by Tom Long's advanced American history class. Long believes that "these projects can get the students motivated, depending on the project and the student." The assignment was to study something from the 1800's. Many students chose architecture, like junior Adam Godwin. Godwin said, "I love school projects. It gives me something to do on my own free time, instead of watching 'Beverly Hills 90210' every day after school."

Another example of well-known projects that students have always loved were Mike Blair's physics labs. Students had about two days to gather the data needed for correct calculations and precise measurements. Senior Charlie Collins said, "I love working with all of the students. These labs give me time off from listening to the teacher and more time to work with my fellow students."

Marilyn Miller's Spanish III classes got pretty crazy with their student presentations and skits. This winter the classes had the privilege to research a country that was assigned to them. The students had three weeks to dig information out from everywhere, and then present a report, colorful posters, and mock interviews. Miller said, "This project is important because the students need to understand the culture, the history, and the economy of the country to understand what is going on in the world today." Junior Mary De France said, " I think it is a super idea, but some times the students take advantage of these projects."

School projects became more and more popular, the students at TRHS did not just settle for the book work, they wanted projects! Doing projects was a new way to expand the mind and a fun way to learn something new.

It's good

Football team ends season with a 5-4 record

The Roughrider football team went into the season facing a very hard schedule, with a goal of trying to make it to the playoffs.

Head Coach Tom Gruening said, "I was pretty optimistic, and had a real positive attitude with this group of young men at the beginning of the season."

As the season progressed, the team was lead by an outstanding group of senior captains: Adam Daley, Tim McKelvey, Cody Morris, Shannon Schwartz and Mike Turner.

Daley said, "The whole team was very excited and anxious to see the way this season would go."

The season started out a little rusty with the Riders falling to Indianola 33-14. They bounced back with a three-game winning streak, beating North, Hoover, and East.

"One of the highest points of the season was beating East for homecoming, with a huge defeat of 41-0," said junior Nick Bartine.

At midseason the Riders ran into their toughest opponent, the Dowling Maroons. Dowling defeated Roosevelt 42-0. Putting it behind them, the Riders came back to spoil the S.E. Polk Rams' homecoming by defeating them 35-0.

The season for the Roughriders was not an easy one, but as serious as it can get, there are some funny things that happen underneath those helmets. "The funniest thing was captain Cody Morris trying to tell a joke," said Gruening.

Gruening went on to say, "All the hard work that the Roughriders put in at the beginning of the year paid off at the end of the season."

Hard work and dedication pays off for football teams

The sophomore and freshman football teams proved that persistence and effort helped to achieve great accomplishments.

Although the freshman squad didn't end with a winning season, they were able to achieve one major goal... teamwork. They worked hard all season competing at every practice and every game to improve. Freshman Justin Bickford said, "The highest point of the season was against North. Our defense and offense played really well and we won 51-26."

The sophomore team managed to finish the season strong with a 6-3 record.

Coach Joe McQuerry said, "They really played together as a team. Throughout the season they continued to improve."

After losing to their toughest game of the season (Dowling), the Riders bounced back to beat S.E. Polk, Marshalltown and Lincoln.

Sophomore Seth Spreadbury said, "The South East Polk game was one of the high points of our season because we beat them by so much- 42-6."

Sophomore James McNear was a quarterback and defensive back. When reflecting on the season he said, "The team worked really hard every day after school and even on Saturdays to finish as strong as we did."

Spreadbury and McNear both agreed that the team was full of leaders, which helped the Riders finished the season with a 6-3 record.

The legacy continues in girls swimming

Take the advice of Head Coach Steve Teter when he says, "You haven't lived until you've met 80 girls at 6 o'clock in the morning." "The girls" practiced twice a day, once at 6 a.m and then for two hours after school. The team didn't spend all their time in the pool, they also had time for school and an active social life.

There were many highlights of the season. For junior Maggie Baker, the most memorable moment was when, "Jeannette Neumann jumped into the pool, and accidently disqualified the winning 400 free relay." Neumann, a sophomore, was so ecstatic for the relay, which had dropped 7 seconds off their already state qualifying team, that she jumped into the pool to congratulate freshman teamate Katie Martin. Neumann felt terrible when she realized they had been disqualified.

The team had many traditions. One was when the senior swimmers (big fish) woke the freshmen (little fish) and dressed them in ridiculous clothing. Senior Blaine Bookey said of the festivities, "It's funny! We like to do it and it gives the freshman a chance to talk to our cute senior guys." As tradition has it, the freshmen fish serenade the senior guys in a before-school ritual. Freshmen Katy McCormick said of the event, "It was fun, and I can't wait until I'm a senior."

Neumann wrapped up the season by saying, "sometimes it's hard to get motivated, but when we get pumped, boy do we get pumped."

Seniors carry the team through a tough season

With the promise of a strong season the varsity squad started off with high hopes. The team only lost two seniors. With the rest of the varsity squad returning they had the advantage of having experience and bonding together. "It's been a great year because there is a large percentage of seniors who have played together all four years," said junior Whitney Austin.

"The team as a whole is really good. We just can't seem to win those close games, and that has been our goal for the season," said Coach Terri Grant.

One of those close games was against Dowling. They played Dowling on Sept. 29 and were defeated by the scores of 7-15, 15-17, and 11-15. "It was a really close game. It was probably the best we played all season. The players worked really well together," said senior Kelly Kennedy.

Aside from the losses of a few close games, the volleyball team accomplished many goals. They have played like a team, established a strong leadership, and above all the team had fun. The varsity squad finished with a 2-6 conference record.

Golf team places fourth in CIML conference, junior Ben Hodge makes state

What a season! Led by junior Ben Hodge and his consistency, the team ended up with a 5-3 record, finishing 4th in the CIML conference.

Hodge proved to be a great leader for the team, and he had the top individual showing of the year, making a state appearance. "Hodge was a medalist in most of our meets. He assumed the leadership role with ease," said coach Orbie Boggs.

Although they lacked experience , they scored well in some meets. "We handily beat East, North, and Lincoln this year," said Scharnberg.

"Lincoln was a tough meet but we prevailed with hardwork and dedication," added Scharnberg. The team fared well in dual meets against city rivals Hoover, North and East. The team also finshed first in the City Series and the Waveland Invitational.

Although they did not qualify as a team for state this year, Hodge qualified individually. At the state meet in Cedar Falls, Hodge shot a round of 83 and a round of 86. The team was able to accomplish many of the goals they set for this outstanding season.

Dusk 'til dawn

Team improves as senior Kristin Cavanagh advances to state

The annual 24-hour relay was held on Aug. 21, the Friday before school started. It started at 7 a.m. and ended Saturday at 7 a.m. Each person ran a 30-minute time slot around the TRHS track. There were one or two people running at a time. When they were not running, they were doing a variety of other things around the school. These activities included swimming in the pool, playing field games, having a cook out by the track and doing a lot of socializing.

"Since the seniors get first pick on the time that they run, the younger people run during the later hours," said senior Kit Schwartz.

The participants of the relay consisted of both middle school students and our cross country teams. The relay was a fund-raiser for the teams to travel to meets such as the Minnesota Invitational held in Minneapolis. They were able to raise more than $1,000.

"The relay was a new experience and a chance to meet new people," said freshman Tory White.

The team members also set up about 15 tents along the track for the runners to rest in after they ran or after they had too much fun.

Team unity is one of the most important aspects of Rider cross country."We were forced to spend 24 hours together so we had plenty of time to bond," said junior Lindsay Fritch.

The team had lost many key runners from the '97 season, but Schwartz, junior Marie Bendixon, and freshman Tricia Murphy stepped up in the time of need, helping place Roosevelt 1st at City and 2nd at Conference. A big disappointment was when the team placed 4th at Districts, not qualifying the team as a whole for the state meet. Although they were unable to make it as a team, senior Kristin Cavanagh made it to state, placing 35th.

Boys cross country team hits cruise control

Like a speeding bullet from a gun, the boys cross country team exploded into their season. With such team stars as senior Bob Atkins and junior Trent Graham, the team had positive outlook on the season. With this new outlook the team won the Hoover Invitational, City, Conference and Districts. "Like any team we had our ups and downs," said coach Mark McConeghey. From the spectator's point of view the team was off to a great season and the downs were hard to see.

The team's season was not just a breeze. At the beginning of the year the team lost one of their stars. Atkins was injured due to a heel injury and only raced twice. "The team had to step it up in the absence of Bob Atkins," said McConeghey, "others were forced to improve and not to rely just on Bob and Trent getting first and second place." Graham was one of the students who had to step it up a notch. He knew that without Atkins, he would have to show leadership and lead the team to victory. He did just that by improving his times 30 to 40 seconds each time that he raced.

Along with Atkins and Graham, senior Scott Lerner, junior Lee Greenberg, junior Aaron Verheul, junior Travis Patten and junior Ben Furneaux showed major improvement throughout the year and helped lead the team to each of their major victories.

As the state meet crept up on the horizon, the team was ready. With their first places in conference and districts, the team was in good hopes about the final hill on a long everlasting journey. Atkins and Graham showed up more ready than ever, placing 3rd and 10th.

Boy's swimming end season ranked 20th in the state

Going into the season the main goal of the boys swim team was to qualify as many members as possible for the state meet.

The team was led by senior captains David Adelman, Dylan Dewdney, and Ted Stroope. Dewdney contributed to the team by his ability to work hard and his ethics to the younger swimmers on the team. Stroope helped out the team by showing an excellent example of straight forward dedication. Adelman also contributed by his ability to motivate teammates at any given moment.

There were many high points of the season. "The freshmen class and their ability to help the team was one of the high points," according to head coach Steve Teter. Teter went on to say that "they also had great dedication and work ethic."

"The swim team will be losing a strong group of leaders this year. With all of the seniors that the team is losing after this season it will leave a big hole in next year's team," said Teter. The seniors incude Adelman, Tom Corrigan, Dewdney, Jan Hugel, Marty Jones, Stroope, and Dan Truesdell.

The swim team had an outstanding performance at conference with Dan Truesdell dropping 6 seconds in the 100 back stroke. The medley relay consisting of Adelman, Winton Congdon, Dewdney, and Stroope placed third at conference against the 2 top medleys in the state. Stroope finished second in the 500 free.

At districts the swim team finished in 4th place and qualified for 6 out of 11 events for state. They qualified the 200 free relay and the 400 free relay team. Adelman and Dewdney qualified individually in the 50 free style. Stroope qualified in the 100 fly and sophomore Dan Karney qualified in the 500 free.

Varsity girls basketball use some elbow grease

As sweat drops off the faces of some very determined girls' faces, Coach Terry Gioffredi could be feeling nothing more than pure satisfaction with all of the hard work that his girls have put forth. Although the season was not exactly a "winning season," the girls established more than just getting more points than the opposing team. "It's been hectic, yet fun. The team has been through a lot with our injuries and losses but we had a great time being around each other," said senior Ronni Caldwell.

The team also showed great improvement as they experienced more game type situations. "We seem to get better with every game," replied Caldwell. With the team's continuous improvement as the season went on, the team hoped to pull a couple more wins. "The most important thing for us now is to finish out the season strong," said captain Mary Tiffany.

Besides being a strong team in the friendship field, the girls seemed to be very strong physically. Even though their record shows that they seemed to be struggling, most of the games were close all the way through and it was the team's physical strength that got the team over the hump. "Our team is full of fighters," said senior Kit Schwartz summing up the season, "To put in a nutshell, if we could combine a little rugby and football with basketball, we would be state champs."

Coach Terry Giofreddi also had some input into his team's performance. "This team is probably one of the best defensive teams I have ever had."

Soph, frosh basketball girls hit nothing but net

Shhhhh. Did you hear that? Just in case you didn't, that was the sound of both the girls freshman and sophomore girls basketball teams cruising through their season at supersonic speed. These exceptional young ladies stepped it up a notch and proved that they were competitors.

"The girls did really well," said head coach Anthony Glass, "they performed above expectations and came together at the end of the season." With phenoms like freshmen Kasey Keimig and Alissa Carney the team has high hopes for the future.

What's to say about the sophomore team? They were so good it hurts. With a 12-8 record they were the best team in five years. Sophomore Megan Bobo summed up the season with her thoughts. "Our team was really great, and has a lot of potential for next year."

Varsity team overcomes its ups and downs

Persistence, talent, effort and teamwork is what led the 1999 varsity boys basketball team through a tough season this year. The boys learned to balance the challenges of academics and practices.

The captains this season, seniors Egan Hill and John Walker, provided excellent leadership throughout the season. Junior Dave Nelson had a lot of respect for the captains. "They stay late at practive and lend a helping hand. They're great," he commented.

Head coach Mike Holmes, in his third year coaching the Roughriders, said of the season, "The boys have been the ultimate example of student athletes. In addition to being fine basketball players, they are gentlemen in every sense of the word. It has been my privilege to coach them and watch them steadily improve."

Losing seniors Hill, Walker, Jacques Stewart, Riam Bang, Robert Long, and Chris Steele, may have been a disappointment at the end of the season, but with strong underclassmen and the hard-working, dedicated players, the Roughriders stayed optimistic about the future.

Although the Roughriders lost their close final game of the season against Valley the fans were stronger than ever. "To me, our student section in the Valley District game was as good as I've seen in ten years of coaching," Holmes said. "They definitely were a factor in our quick start and made the atmosphere more enjoyable in which to play."

From a rocky start to excellent teamwork

Determination and hard work described the freshman and sophomore boys basketball teams.

As the year progressed, so did the players. Sophomore Beau Brush said, "I believe that we got off to a rocky start, real rocky." Things got better as the season progressed, according to sophomore James Ahsah. "Compared to the beginning, our team has made improvement," he said.

The freshman team also put forth a lot of hard work and team effort. Freshman Patrick McGravey said the best part of the season was "just learning to work hard." Along with the hard work, improvement came. "We got together and played together about halfway through the season. Everyone played really well," freshman Michael Tallman said.

Dowling, Indianola, and Urbandale were seen as the toughest teams played this season. Both freshman and sophomore teams lost to each of these teams but they played hard and were great competiton. Sophomore James McNear thought Indianola was the toughest opponent. "We played them twice and though making a big improvement in between the games, we still lost," he said. Despite the losses, they came together as a team.

Two Roosevelt wrestlers advance to the state meet

Senior Clint Carlson never missed a practice in his four-year wrestling career, leading by example.

Coach Jay Groth said the senior captains were "all vocal and good leaders."

The wrestling team had some high hopes going into the season. Led by a great group of seniors, the Riders were ready to go.

Moving into the conference meet, the wrestling team had one goal in mind. "We want to be city champs and we know we are capable of doing it," senior captain Jacob Schmitz said.

The Riders started off their conference battle with a loss against Indianola, but bounced back to beat North. They finished with a conference record of 3-6.

As the season moved on the team began to struggle with some big injuries and illnesses to a couple of key members. Seniors Jeremy Meythaler, out for part of the season with mono, Mike McLeran with a broken thumb, Carlson was out with hurt ribs and Ben Harman was out with a concussion.

"Because of all the injuries we have had, we have not been able to meet the expectations we knew we could," Harman said.

But as the season rolled on, the Riders found success. Carlson found himself to be ranked No. 4 in the state. Carlson also beat Bob Annexstad's school record of most career victories (88). "All of Clint's hard work and dedication has paid off," Groth said.

The Riders sent two wrestlers to state, Carlson and sophomore Kevin Owens. Owens is the only sophomore to to to state in the history of Roosevelt wrestling. Carlson finished fifth in the state at 152 pounds.

Boys team aims high for Drake Relays and State

The boys track team looked forward to having a successful season with a great group of young men and returning seniors.

Some of the returning seniors included Bobby Atkins, Andrae Delaney, Ken Eboh, Egan Hill, Marty Jones, Scott Lerner, Tim McKelvey, and Scott Lerner. They played a big role in the amount of success the team had throughout the year.

Junior Travis Patten said, "They are all good leaders. They even encouraged me to attempt the 400 hurdles after I finish my distance running."

It was not just the seniors carrying the team. "The underclassmen are very dedicated and hard working. Freshman Andy Johnson has stepped up a lot in the 2 mile and sophomore Kyle O'Johnson has also stepped up as a sprinter," sophomore Seth Ickowitz said.

The Drake Relays were held April 23-24. The sprint medley consisting of Hill, Atkins, Delaney, and Nichols finished with a first-place victory.

The 4x800 which included junior Trent Graham, Atkins, Jones and Lerner, finished third.

Nichols got his third consecutive win in the 110 high hurdles and was also named the most outstanding high school performer for the Drake Relays.

With the amount of success some of these guys had, you can see that they competed beyond the rest. Future plans included Atkins competing for the University of Iowa and Nichols running for the University of Northern Iowa.

Girls track team aims high to achieve goals

The girls track team represented what our school stands for: dedication and leadership. The team's excited newcomers and veterans planned on picking up where they had left off. The season began on February 22.

Throughout the season, the team strived for excellence and worked hard trying to keep up the standard that had been set by the girls of previous years, with the previous year's second place at state. The team suffered not only injuries but the reality of defeat. In the first part of the season junior Lolo Jones pulled a hamstring. This affected the team's scoring possibilities. Defeated 126 points to 117 points by East, the girls lost their first City Meet in years.

"I felt devastated," said senior Ronni Caldwell. "Since my freshman year, we have always won the city meet. Being that it is my senior year, I really expected us to win." They also had the lowest number of participants in the Drake Relays in four years. On the bright side, junior Davonna Carr placed third in the long jump, while the sprint medley relay didn't make it into the finals.

Not wanting to end the season in defeat, the team had to regroup and become a family. With the encouragement from coaches and others, the team began to make a comeback. Aid came from sophomore Casey Owens. With her undeniable talent, she provided key points to the scoreboard with her 3,000 meter and 1,500 meter runs. "I wanted to beat certain times. I could only do this if I put my total heart and soul into every race," said Owens, who finished 5th at State.

With the girls' perseverance, they succeeded in going on to state in six events.

Girls tennis players swing into action-packed season

Girls tennis team members had high hopes for their season. Although the girls had a slow start, suffering with early losses to Ames and Indianola, they continued the season with great enthusiasm and pride.

The team was lead by senior captain Kristin Cheeseman and junior captain Whitney Austin. Juniors Pricilla Zeff, Amber Olson, and Lindsay Fritch returned to help lead the team to victory. With the help of the new freshmen talents, Bridget Ganske and Caroline Wine, the tennis team proved to be a success.

One of the most unexpected contibutors to the tennis team was Marie Bendixen, a foreign exchange student from Denmark where she ranked third in the country.

Bendixen helped the tennis team to arrive at many of their victories.

"Playing tennis here has been a lot of fun," said Bendixen. "Unlike Denmark, it is a lot more competitive and challenging. I have high hopes for this year's tennis team."

It took the team a while to get started, but by mid-season they were going strong.

Just after the first two meets Zeff said, "Our team is really improving. By the end of the season we should be beating everyone."

Sure enough they did. The team went on to defeat teams such as North, Hoover, Dowling, East, and S.E. Polk.

"This year's team has really come a long way from the beginning of the season," said coach Debbie Stetson. "Everyone has really worked hard and their efforts have paid off."

What was the funniest thing that happened to you or someone else this season?

"Khay Rasavong and Lindsay Fritch were playing doubles against Indianola. They were doing really well until they both went for the ball and ran headfirst into one another. Lindsay's head was a little bruised for the next week."

Amber Olson, junior

"It was our first meet of the season. I was playing singles and when I went to return the serve, I accidentally threw my racket after hitting the ball. Luckily, I had enough time to run across the court and pick it up before the ball came back."

Three boys tennis players qualify for State Tourney

Three boys tennis players qualified for state: senior Matt Loeb and junior Zlatko "Z" Letica made it in doubles, while junior Mike Kalhorn qualified for State singles play.

The team was led by captains Loeb and Jeremy Strief. Another leader of the team is junior newcomer "Z," a transfer from Hoover, who played at the No.1 slot.

"Roosevelt is known throughout the state for having a great tennis program. This year's team is trying to live up to the school's great tradition in our quest to win state," Loeb explained.

The team's strength was partially attributed to the talented crop of newcomers: freshmen Jeff Cheeseman, Jeff Dikis, John Heggen, and Alex Loeb along with junior David Dickson all made an impact on varsity.

Senior Arik Anderson said that the addition of managers Mike Baker and Brett Murphy to the team was the biggest reason for the success this season.

"With Mike and Murph serving as our ball boys and providing us with hot-oil massages and high-quality H2O, how could we not succeed? They bring money, power, respect, leadership, and street knowledge to our formidable squad."

Team work was a huge factor as well, as Strief said, "This year, more than any other, Roosevelt has been playing like a team."

With quality wins over Valley for the first time in 22 years and the first victory over Ames in 5 years, the team made a strong run at the State Title.

Boys soccer beats Hoover in Sub-State Finals

Every time that the soccer team took the field, the wind picked up and the sky turned black for one reason. The Riders were on the storm.

With the return of 13 varsity players from last season, the TRHS varsity boys soccer team started the season off with high expectations. "We have so many guys returning, we didn't lose much from last year," senior John Walker said.

Team members had a very successful season the previous year, finishing third in the state. They opened up the season with a victory over Lincoln, and with all the talent this team held, they once again were a contender for both conference and state titles.

"I'm looking forward to an up and coming season, and we have the leadership to allow this team to take home the state title," said senior Jeff Feintech.

Leading the team were senior captains Matt Johnson, Brian Grefe, and Feintech.

The Riders conquered East, North, South East Polk, Marshalltown, Dowling, and Lincoln. The Dowling game was a bit of a challenge, tied up at 3-3, until junior Cooper Lewis scored the winning goal in overtime.

A season highlight was a 4-1 victory over No. 5 ranked Hoover in sub-state play, which advanced the No. 7 ranked Riders to state.

In the words of junior Chris Wilson, "In the midst of the night, we will prevail like knights on horses and take state!"

Intimidation

You can't stop them, you can only hope to contain them

Fasten your seatbelts and make sure that your seats and trays are in their upright position because the girls soccer team is preparing for takeoff.

Both the JV and varsity squads looked forward to a promising season. Coach Melody Parkins started off her Roosevelt coaching career with the JV team. From her playing time for Simpson College, she hoped to bring her talents and knowledge to her new team. Once again Skip Quinn returned to coach the varsity team.

JV squad members had much to be excited about. With their new coach and exceptional talent, they looked to perform well this season.

"I feel the season will go well and we will improve with each and every game," said sophomore Tracy Murrin-Von Ebers.

Coach Quinn also looked for good things from the J.V. squad. He knew that these young ladies would soon be his varsity team and he "expects growth from them."

Murrin-Von Ebers summed up her goals for the team by saying, "we did very well last year and we should kick a little rump again this year."

With nine returning starters, the team looked to be hard to beat. Not only did the varsity team have great talent, but they also had another thing in their favor...teamwork.

Their goals were simple: go undefeated in conference and stay healthy. And with the bond that these girls had, this was no problem.

"We'll take state guaranteed," said senior captain Kate Glasnapp with sheer confidence.

With returning players, girls slide into new season

Girls softball players looked forward to a promising season. The team was predicted to have a good chance to place at the top of the conference.

Although they didn't finish at the top the previous season, "the team still came through with a strong finish and had a lot of fun at the same time," said senior Beth Mensing. "We ended up beating teams that we did not expect to beat, which was a good feeling."

There is something unique about the softball team. They had an entire season to bond together, so they became friends and were ready to take on the other softball teams.

They practiced many hours together and were familiar with each other's personalities and styles of playing. When not playing softball, the players were usually found taking a break at Dairy Queen or McDonalds.

Players praised Coach Pippert for her coaching skills.

"We have a special bond with her, and that brings the team closer together," said junior Patty Sneddon. "She is a good coach because she works well with all of the players," said sophomore Tia Pena.

Due to yearbook publication deadlines, the summer season could not be covered, but good luck to all of the girls.

Boys baseball predicted as one of the best recently

The best since 1954?

Senior Chris Steele predicted that this baseball team would be the TRHS' best since 1954.

"This year we should break the school record of 19 wins and we should finish in the top 3 in the CIML," he said.

Captains were senior Clint Carlson and junior Brett Murphy, who were both recruited by Division I colleges.

Carlson's expectations were to be a team player and for the team to do their very best. "I think we should be fundamentally sound and will hopefully be considered 'the chronic' in the CIML conference," he said.

Murphy said he wanted "to win all of our conference games and make it to the State Tournament."

Other top players were seniors Corey Garner, Mike McLeran, Chris Steele.

Coach Pat Yacinich, in his seventh year as head coach, said he wanted to "reach our potential before the tournaments at the end of the year."

Due to yearbook publication deadlines, the summer results are unavailable. Coaches and players agreed that this season would be a summer to remember.

Cheer . . .

What are you waiting for?

Dedicated, peppy, involved, and active were only a few words that described this cheerleading squad.

All three squads, freshman, sophomore, and varsity, put a lot of time into all the seasons.

"I think we have come a long way from the past years," said Natalie Graziano- Davis, one of the senior co-captains. The other captains included seniors Alicia Iniguez, Anita Van Lo and Carrie Bradshaw

Squad members were very active in the early months of the school year. They raised more than $800 with two car washes, sold spirit poms at some of the home basketball games and had a Mini-Cheer Clinic for young girls aspiring to cheer at TRHS in a few years. This was the first clinic for the cheerleaders at TRHS.

"The young girls really look up to the high school girls and this years squad was made of great role models," said sponsor Dona Adcock.

Graziano-Davis was a champ this year. She won numerous awards and nominations. The awards she won included All National Cheerleading Association, Iowa All State Cheer Squad, Shrine Bowl Squad, and she was invited to tryout for the squad at University of Iowa.

"This squad was just outstanding; this team walked away with many acomplishments," said Adcock. They received second place at the 4A Coed State Cheerleading Competition.

Capitals shave the ice as water polo makes waves

Hockey and water polo were two popular club sports using water in very different ways.

TRHS has many club sports that are both fun and interesting. The participants of these clubs worked hard and gave their all when it was time to compete.

The club hockey team was the Des Moines Capitals, whom you probably hadn't heard much of until this year. The area hockey team included TRHS players: senior Jimmy Blanche, juniors John Baker, Mike Baker, Ben Furneaux, Brett Murphy, sophomores A.J. Horrigan, Ted Nieters, and freshman Jeff Cheeseman.

The Capitals finished the season with a 22-4 record. one of the team's goals was "to come in first place," said Furneaux.

Another goal of the team was "to beat Mason City because they beat us three times in a row and we had to play them in the season championship game," said J. Baker. The Capitals beat Mason City 6-1.

The water polo team was led by senior captains Kelly Kennedy and Marya Swenson instead of a regular coach. "The waterpolo team is strong despite not having any real coaches," said junior Winton Congdon.

Water polo was a great way to have fun at six o'clock in the morning.

"The team is really laid back and just loves to have fun," junior Dylan Huey said.

Because water polo was an intramural sport, they did not keep scores, so it did not matter who won or lost. They were just there to have fun.

Sharks show TRHS how to party like it's 1999

Everyone was partying at the Sharks Pageant when the synchronized swimming team presented their show as "Party Like It's 1999."

On April 15, 16, and 17 the Shark girls transformed the pool into one big party and had a blast doing it.

The year was full of new highlights. A performance from an alumni group of Sharks and a few women from other synchro teams lit up the show. The great group of women included the Sharks coach, Linda Chase. They went out and proved they could still shine.

Emcees Topher Dawe and Wade Marshall had the tough job of entertaining the audience with restricted scripts.

"At first it was difficult to create funny skits that everyone thought were appropriate with the past reputation of ushers, but I thought it came together quite well," said Dawe.

The ushers of the pageant included senior boys David Adelman, Trent Christensen, Chris Diebel, Craig Elbert, Jeff Feintech, Brady Hogan, Marty Jones, Cyrus Nichols, JR Textor, and Bob Wilson.

For the second year, P.E. teacher Mike Wilson was the Sharks sponsor. Once again he helped the Sharks and the administration solve all their problems and work together.

"The Sharks' synchronized swimming performance was only exceded by their academic performance," he said.

With the natatorium heavily guarded by administration and police, the usual array of objects thrown into the pool were not seen. However, a pair of underware was thrown in on Saturday night just as the lights went out.

Not only was the show special, being the last one before the new millenium, but it was the 75 year anniversary of the Sharks. A local news crew went to the show and interviewed some of the girls. Presidents Blaine Bookey and Melissa Baker cheesed up for the camera.

All in all, the pageant was a success and the Sharks once again proved that they are a very talented group of girls. It is certain that 1999 will be a year for everyone to remember.

Hey Sharks! Just how big was the party?

"Go Sharks, we partied like it was 1999! Grrrrrr!"

Katelin Reilly, senior

"It was a blast, and I still have the glitter in my hair to prove it!"

Megan Caldbeck, sophomore

"The excitement before the show when we wait behind the doors is extreme. Especially when the Saturday night crowd roars."

Megan Kerman, junior

"The finale suits were so small they took ten minutes to get on! I almost fell on my head during our duet, but other than that pageant was great."

Melissa Baker, senior

Getting in the swing of things on the greens

TRHS had an outstanding girls golf team consisting of 6 girls.

Senior Erin Will, junior Lauren Haakinson, sophomores Jennifer Rhodes and Claire Woodburn and freshmen Megan Anderson and Haley Kerman made up this team.

Although the team shrank a little, the girls still played their best and worked together as a team. The girls worked hard and succeeded.

The team practiced daily, except Fridays, at the Waveland Golf Course. Coaching the team, Orbie Boggs followed them around the course and gave them helpful hints on how to swing like Tiger Woods.

"We're off to a slow start, but we're working on speeding up our game," Boggs said.

Sophomore Claire Woodburn had a different view on the season. "We're rollin' the fairways and smokin' the greens!" Woodburn said.

The team played very well, beating Hoover, East and North, and placing second at the City Meet.

What was the most embarrassing thing that happened to you during the season?

"I hit so many golf balls into the pond I had to ask Orbie if he had an extra."
Abby Goodman, sophomore

"I wiffed the ball so many times that I finally picked it up and threw it!"
Megan Anderson, freshman

"I always took my bag on the green when I putted!"
Haley Kerman, freshman

"Everyone kept asking me if I had a woody - What were they talking about?"

SAY WHAT?

What was your funniest experience as a teacher?

"One time a student woke up talking to her mother during a dream in the middle of class."

David Mahler, social sciences

"After seeing a statue of Moses, a student asked me, 'How long did Moses have to pose for Michelangelo?' "

Richard Treman, economics

"We had a pregnant cat to dissect one year and we took the baby cat out of the uterus. The skin fell right off the baby cat and we were holding the skeleton by the head."

Marc Ayers, biology

"The first couple of years teaching, I taught biology and the nurse came in to teach sex ed. When she was filling the foam contraceptive it exploded all over the front row of my students."

Dick Hewins, chemistry

"One time a sophomore girl gave a book report on Malcolm X and she introduced it as, 'My book report is on Malcolm the tenth.' "

Rick Pfander, english

"I took a group of kids to see a play called 'Rhinoceros.' Before we bought the tickets we were warned that there would be brief nudity, but we decided to go anyways. It turned out that all the costumes had follees (fake penises) on them. None of the kids were actually able to watch the play the whole time."

Art Holcomb, english

FRESHMEN

Hey, freshman!

Some renegade freshmen just refused to eat nachos in the cafeteria. Every day they overcame the challenge of finding a ride out and of course getting back to school. Some could not escape monitor Joe McQuerry, while a lucky few never got caught.

CLOSE CALLS

"I've only been caught three times, but I go out to lunch almost every day."
Jeff Juergens

"I've only gotten in trouble two times but I used to go out every day until I got caught."
Allison Little

"I've gotten in trouble a lot, but I don't feel I should tell you how many times."
Andrew Dittmer

SOPHOMORES

Nice car!
With a new license to drive, cars became status symbols for sophomores. A new policy of not allowing sophomores to park in the student lot was unpopular with this class.

A LICENSE TO DRIVE

"It ain't my daddy's, it's mine."
Kelli Haugen, Acura Legend '92

"Besides its broken tail light, no heat and ghetto windows, it's one tight ride."
Meghan Caldbeck, Jeep '94

"On the tight corners it handles like a champ."
Ryan Heiken, VW Fox

"It's the offroad machine!"
Ted Nieters, Jeep Wrangler '94

JUNIORS

Hey, nice nickname!

There comes a time in a teenager's life when friends may discover a name that describes their personality or appearance. Some names may even go through a trial and error process. For example: Junior Jeremy Lamarche started with J-Ru and Germs. He finally decided on Froggie, with the help of his peers. Here are the top ten nicknames of the class of 2000:

TOP 10 JUNIOR NAMES

10. P-WOOD - David Schoelerman
9. TOOTH - Omar Duncan
8. BIGGIE - Jason Bickford
7. LEGS - Whitney Austin
6. BEAST - Chris Anderson
5. SLY DOGG - Nick Sly
4. HERMIT - Trent Graham
3. AMBULAR - Amber Olson
2. CABBIE - Alex Garton
1. CHINSTRAP - Aaron Carmack

SAY WHAT?

"My favorite part of prom had to be the variety in music, because we had a DJ and a band. The DJ played rap and hip hop and the band played oldies."

Chris Diebel, senior

"My favorite part of prom was being with all of my friends in one place all night."

Katey Hand, senior

PROM 1999 ...DREAMS

Each seniors had his or her own ritual to prepare for the big night. The following were just a few last minute things done on P-Day:

10:00--Ashley Canney frantically runs around town looking for fabric for her prom dress.

11:00--Derrick Wilson watches Soul Train for the latest dance moves.

11:30--Sarah Tallman enters the beauty parlor to get her hair done.

12:30--Ben Mandelbaum stands on a street corner begging for gas money for later that evening.

2:00--Senior girls run to Visual Impact for one last tanning session.

2:30-- Sarah Tallman's hairdresser takes a 15-minute break after passing out from hairspray fumes.

3:00--Mike Turner runs to get another speaker for his car, just in case his system isn't loud enough.

4:15-- John Walker breaks into the Roosevelt Music Department to steal a swing choir tux, because he just had to match his date's purple dress.

4:30--Sarah Tallman enters her house looking like she just stepped out of a salon.

5:00-- Chris McGill's mom has to go pick out a last minute corsage, because it had somehow slipped his mind.

6:00--Before sending their children off to a night of "Dreams," weeping parents take one last picture.

7:30--At dinner, senior girls make a best dressed list for the evening.

9:00--The doors open at Val Air, after Diane Andersen has been banging on them for 3 hours.

10:00--Kit Schwartz rips her dress while grinding on the dance floor.

10:15--After filling out ballots for a half hour, Brain Grefe's pen runs out of ink and he decides that maybe he has filled out enough ballots.

10:30--Arik Anderson forgets he's not a Chippendale and takes off his shirt on the dance floor.

11:00--Prom King and Queen are announced: Marya Swenson walks elegantly to accept her crown, while Brian Grefe runs up to give a shout out to his dogs.

12:00--The dance ends, and Mary Tiffany officially joins the DonE tribe.

GOT orange JUICE?

"Roosevelt is a great school because of its diversity of many different kinds of people from different countries and different backgrounds. We all have very different values that are expressed at school."

Bob Su

"I have always experienced an overall welcome from everyone. You never feel isolated because people are generally willing to get along."

Lisa Edge

"Swing choir and vocal music will always be one great memory that I have had from Roosevelt. I have really enjoyed my experience with the music department. They have been a great family to spend my four years with."

Sarah Talman

"Mr. King was my favorite teacher. He feels math is really important. He didn't let our personality conflicts get in the way of helping me and encouraging me."

Ini Augustine-Akpan

SAY WHAT?

"I was a little nervous but everything went well at graduation, and now I'm ready to 'Party like it's 1999'!"

Christy Thomas, senior

"Graduation was kind of a weird experience, because you work four years towards this one moment, and those four years just fly by!"

Shannon Schwartz, senior

"I am excited to have graduated, but at the same time sad that it's all over."

Rachelle Williams, senior

ONE last RIDE

The Knapp Center at Drake University filled with seniors and hundreds of their friends and families as they gathered to take part in Roosevelt's 1999 graduation on Sun. May 30.

The ceremony started with the band playing the traditional processional, "Pomp and Circumstance." Principal Larry Martindale gave his welcome and turned the ceremony over to Mike Walag who directed the concert choir in singing "I am but a Small Voice," with a duet by seniors Sarah Tallman and Ian Allen, and "America the Beautiful."

The 53 valedictorians selected Blaine Bookey to give the valedictory address. Bookey spoke of the stereotypes given to different generations. Her grandparents were in the "Golden" generation, her parents were part of the "Baby Boomers," while the Class of 1999 has yet to be given their label. The senior class voted psychology teacher Dave Mahler to give the faculty address.

Martindale and Vice Principal Gail Soesbe then presented the special awards. The awards and their recipients were: the Cress O. Hoyt award to Kelly Kennedy, the Charlene Lakin award to Mary Tiffany, the Wanda E. Everage award to Chris Diebel, the Robert Cummings Memorial Scholarship to Elizabeth Grace, the Herman Kirkpatrick award to Chau Nguyen, and the Iowa Bar Association Citizenship award to Heather Asman and Tory Schlievert.

Finally, the moment that each senior had worked four years for, the presentation of diplomas. One by one each senior's name was called as they slowly they made their way across stage to receive their diploma.

The ceremony ended with the concert band playing "Fanfare and Recessional." Graduation marked the end of these seniors' ride at Roosevelt. Congratulations and good luck in the future!

AMBEROLSON

Right: Seniors Robin Ligouri, Melissa Baker and Paul Espey decide whether to take a hit or stay, as they play a friendly game of blackjack in the casino. The three also are lucky that they are using fake money because according to Espey "If the money was real I would have probably bet my house when I started losing."

Below: Senior Joshua Warren stands in victory as he wins yet another sumo wrestling match. In fact Warren had so much fun in the sumo suit that he kept wearing it and trampled over innocent civillians like fellow senior Jacob Schmitz.

SAY WHAT?

"The best thing about the senior party was that it was one last time for the seniors to get together before we all departed on our own journeys."

Inta Eponght, senior

"The party was like a new pair of underwear, constrictive at first but then it becomes a part of you."

Wade Marshall, senior

"It was the perfect end to my four fun-filled years at TRHS."

Ellen Wilson, senior

Above right: Senior Tyree Lewis looks in wonder as he gets a fake tattoo put on. The tattoo was not the only way students could change their physical appearance, the school also had hair coloring and face painting.

Right: During the day and all through the night this massive sign showing the theme of the party hung magnificently causing many stares from the street. In fact it probably caused a few fender benders, but that is a reasonable price for getting a chance to see this stunning sign.

Far above: Seniors Chris McGill and Eric Hartung race for the velcro weights during their intense bungee run race.

Above: Senior Yong-Joo Ahn had to be told many times to slow down while skating in the halls.

PLANET ROOSEVELT

TRHS was magically transformed from a good-looking school to "Planet Roosevelt" for the annual senior class party on May 30. Every year after commencement seniors come up to the school and are entertained by various attractions throughout the night. From karaoke to laser tag, this party had it all.

The senior lock-in is not just some party thrown together in a week. For a year in advance, parents raise money and plan for the night. A lot of preparation and elbow grease went into putting this party together and the parents should all be praised for the job that they do each year.

Now for the interesting part, what happened at this thing. Before the seniors are allowed to enter, family members and friends got a sneak preview at the school. In the early afternoon they were allowed to go on a walk through of the halls to check out the decorations and attractions. Needless to say, they were all impressed.

The following schedule of activities was offered to the seniors: the night started off with a bang, literally. Fireworks went off at the front entrance, with a special appearance from Elvis to welcome the senior class. From there, students could participate in karaoke, a trivia contest, and arcade games. From 10:30 to 11:30 p.m. Papa's Party to Go was bumping in the small gym. Roller skating, dream interpretation, and massages were held until 3 a.m. K-2 challenge and laser tag also were offered until 3 a.m. In the cafeteria (Viva Las Vegas) all students could gamble away with the coins they were given when they entered the casino. At 2:30 a.m. an auction took place where the winnings could be spent to get assorted prizes. The most anticipated show took stage from 3:30 to 4:30. This was of course, the hypnotist show. "Seeing people look so stupid was the funniest thing that I've ever seen at 3:30 in the morning," senior Robin Ligouri said about the show.

More than this took place, but since the parents don't want to give away too much of the fun for future senior classes, the story must end here.

END or BEGINNING?

When you look back on your high school years, do you ever ask yourself where it all went? How did "the best years of your life" slip by so quickly? The puzzle of life never seems to end.

No longer are the halls of Roosevelt a labyrinth for freshman, the sophomores have finally developed their poker faces, the juniors are ready to tackle their own mad lib and the seniors face the hardest game of all: Life.

Students around the world have united, protesting against violence and hate. Everyone has begun to realize that we need to come together, working towards a better environment and respecting individualism and diversity.

Now we have come to the end of one maze, but do not underestimate your high school years because they have prepared you for the next game you will have to endeavor.
